"WE ARE FULFILLING OLD AND TESTED U.S. IDEALS"—ROOSEVELT

ROOSEVELT BOARD AVERTS STRIKE FULL CO-OPERATION NOW ANTICIPATED INDUSTRIAL PEACE ERA

WASHINGTON, To-day. THE THREATENED STEEL STRIKE IN THE UNITED STATES HAS BEEN Averted. A BOARD OF THREE HAS BEEN APPOINTED TO ARBITRATE THE DIFFERENCES. BOTH SIDES HAVE AGREED TO ACCEPT THE DECISIONS OF THE BOARD, WHICH HAS BEEN SELECTED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

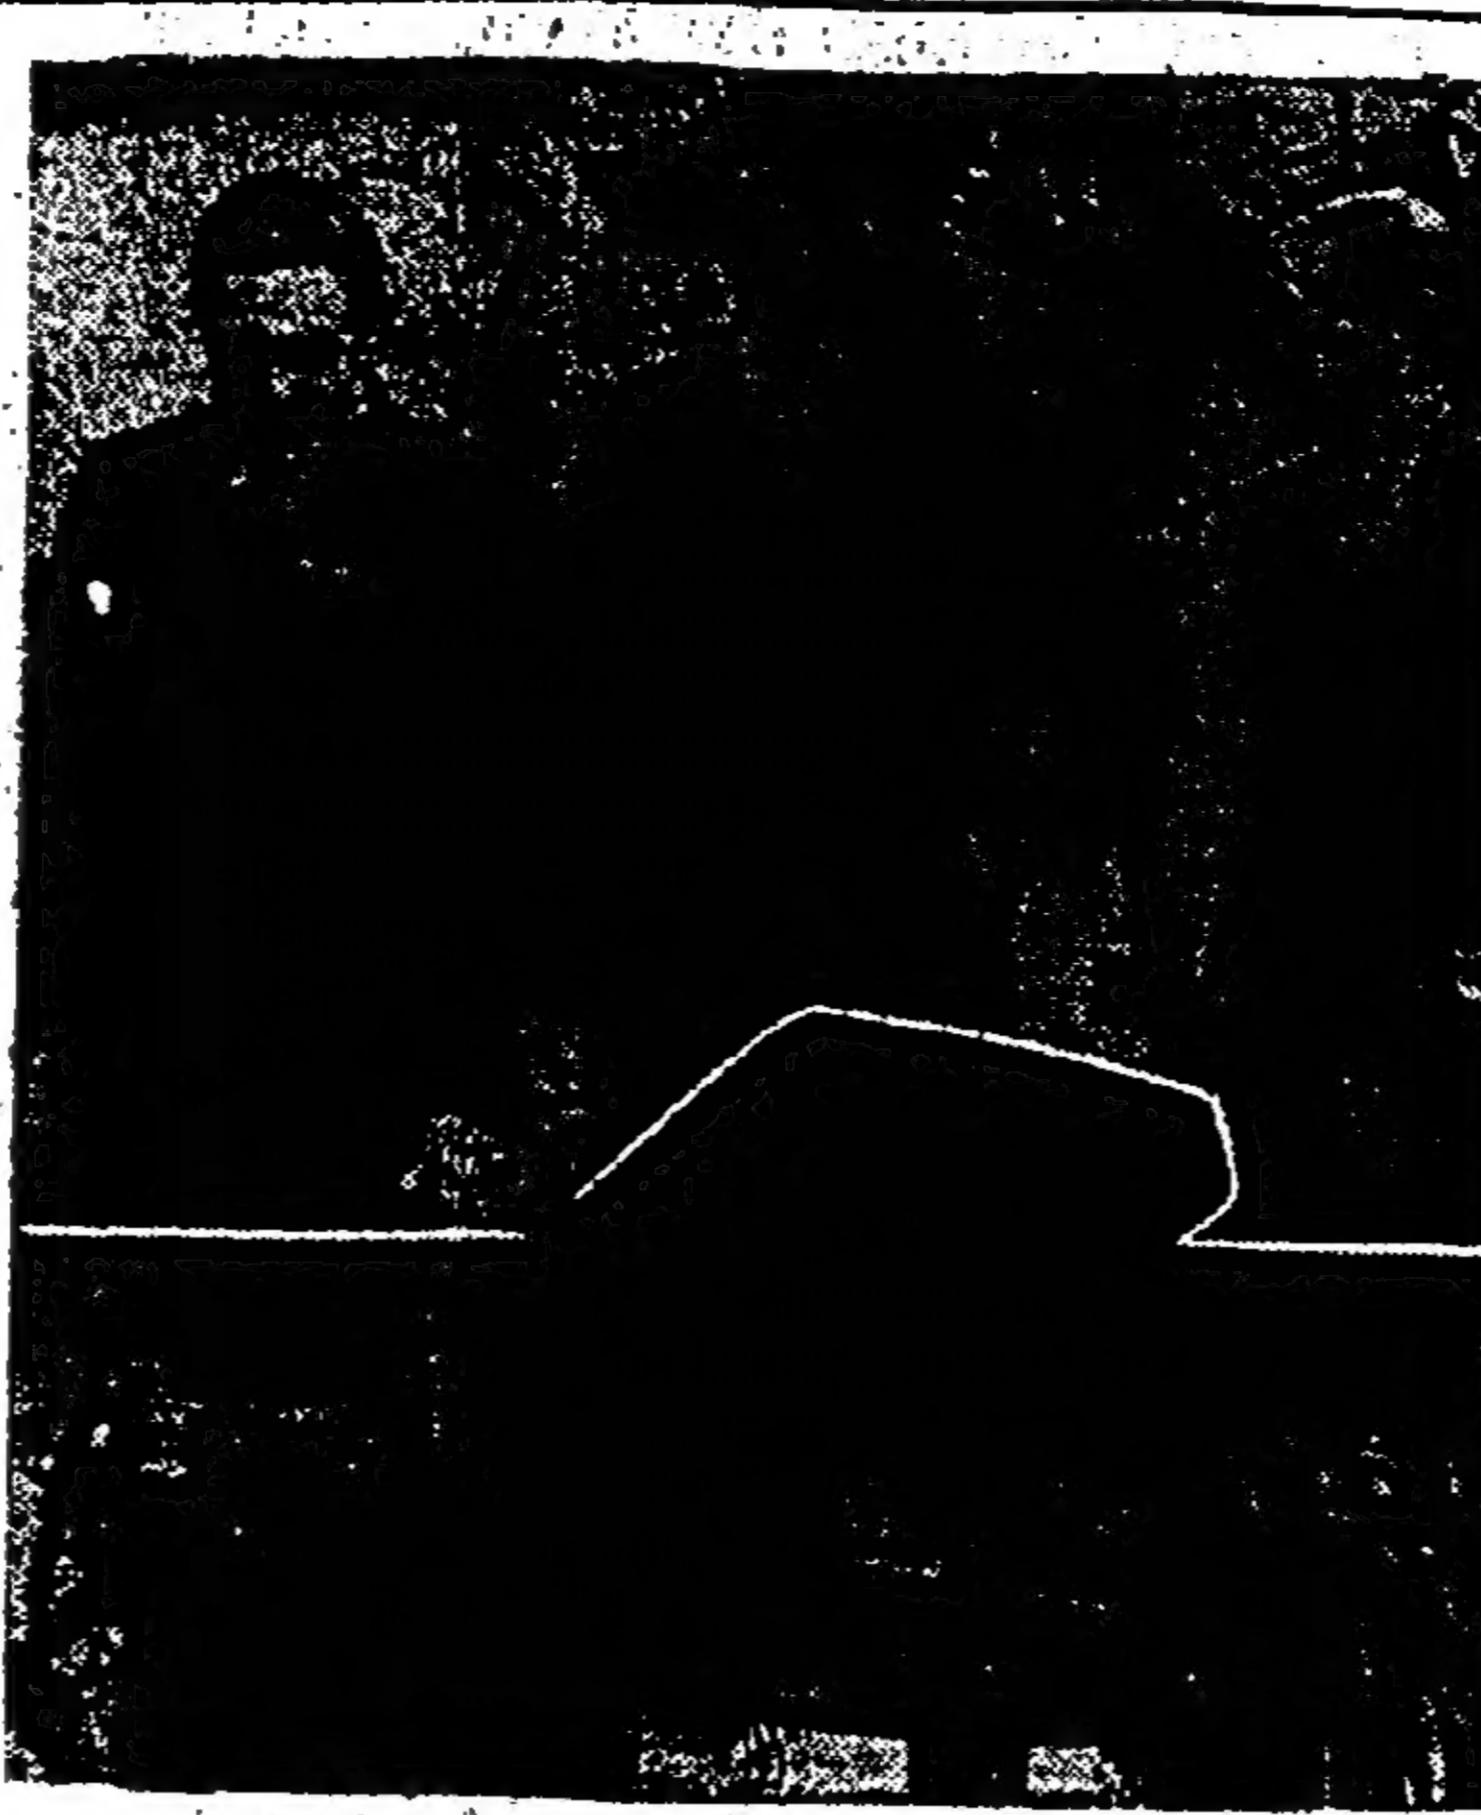

The steel agreement was negotiated by Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labour, whose plan President Roosevelt approved.

The board consists of Judge Stacey, of North Carolina, retired Rear-Admiral H. E. Wiley, of New York, and Mr. James Mullenbach of Chicago.

President Roosevelt, in a statement declared that the board consisted of impartial men of thoroughly independent judgment, and fully empowered to act. The functions of the board will be limited to the labour relations in the iron and steel industry.

THE PRESIDENT ANTICIPATES THAT THE BOARD WILL SERVE TO MAINTAIN INDUSTRIAL PEACE WITH JUSTICE AND FURTHER THE ESTABLISHMENT OF SOUND STANDARDS OF LABOUR RELATIONS IN THIS IMPORTANT INDUSTRY.

HE CONFIDENTLY EXPECTS FULL CO-OPERATION ON BOTH SIDES.

Milwaukee, To-day.

A crowd of 15,000 strike sympathisers yesterday wrecked four street cars and forced the cancellation of all services.

Fourteen people were injured and 20 imprisoned. Tear-gas was used to rout the rioters.

The strike, involving the city's utility workers, was declared yesterday morning. Electric power is being supplied only to the hospitals, the police, and the fire brigade. — United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

SUMMER FOOT COMFORT
Walk Before Trying On New Shoes.
CORRECT SIZE IN STOCKINGS NECESSARY

A luxurious tone for the boudoir is provided by this charming black lace negligee over a soft satin with huge spiral cap of white fox fur. This new note of fur on lace is striking and enhances the blonde beauty of Esther Ralston, screen actress.

Stockings should be exactly the right size. If they're too long, they'll wrinkle around the toes, causing blisters. If too short, they're apt to crowd the toes, making them ache.

And, as a final word, never wear stockings a second day without washing. A fresh pair each and every day is the rule.

Pastel Colours Distinctive Summer Collection By Molyneux.

OSTRICH FEATHERS ONCE MORE

Paris. Captain Edward Molyneux designs always with a practiced hand upon the pulse of feminine impulse. He knows the love of masquerade that holds so many women in its clutch, and so in his mid-season collection he remains faithful to the Chinese influence which distinguished so many of the most successful models in his last showing.

An evening ensemble of purplish blue taffeta that looks more than ever like a Chinese print is typical.

The gown is fitted through the hips and thighs and contrasts pleasingly with the loose flare of the matching coat which is built on kimono lines.

The magyar or Chinese yoke, cut in one with the sleeves, prevails throughout daytime dresses.

Another weakness of the feminine heart is ostrich plumes. It is an art to use them lavishly, yet with discretion—to make their wearers look like grandes dames, and not vaudeville actresses—an art with which Molyneux is thoroughly familiar.

For instance, there is a gown of water blue crepe with which is worn a boa wrap made of ostrich fronds in the same light blue mixed with a few back fronds.

And there is another gown of Nils green crepe, simple and untrimmed, but made very elegant by its five-eighths length cape of long ostrich feather fronds in the same delicate green.

IT IS AN ART

It is an art, too, to make pastel colours distinctive, and this also is achieved in this collection, where pale pastel and white crepe evening gowns are made most simply and distinguished by crepe facings around the hemline in lovely colours darker than the dresses.

A new material is an artificial taffeta which is shown in big checks, irregular plaids, and cross-barred effects and used either alone or in contrast with plain coloured fabrics.

BRIGHTENING LEATHER BELTS

If your leather belt is shabby, give it a coat of leather-lacquer, which can be had in a large range of shades and is useful for many household purposes.

SUMMER WARDROBE FOR 1934
Novel Suits For Seaside.

The woman who is planning an inexpensive summer wardrobe will be interested in the new artificial crepes de Chine. They are guaranteed not only unscratchesable but washable, and are made in attractive floral designs. A little frock of this crepe can be run up very cheaply.

For her, too, is the new material made to look like linen, intended for tennis and beach dresses which have to stand lots of hard wear.

CLINGS LIKE SKIN

The woman who is either over or under the average height will rejoice in the new stockings made on special looms. These can be obtained extra long for long-legged people, and just the right length for the shorter woman.

There are some novel suits for the seaside—a triangular "handkerchief" top in plain blue wool and separate blue-and-white checkered wool-trunks, for instance.

Dull turquoise is the new colour for "scanties," and woven silk lace the latest material. It is made so that it clings like a second skin and lies smoothly beneath the new close

BRADBURY SECURES LEADERSHIP IN SENIOR BOWLS SKIPS TABLE

C. G. SILVA

SILVA ONE OF ORIGINAL RECREIO TEAM

Interporter Who Holds Highest Skip Win

TWICE REACHES LAST EIGHT IN COLONY CHAMPIONSHIP

(By G. L.)

One of the first members of the Club de Recreio to take up lawn bowls when it was introduced in the Portuguese Club in 1927, C. G. Silva has played consistently since that date for the Recreio with no small measure of success.

Commencing as a raw novice, Silva skipped his Club's junior team in their first Lawn Bowls League match, within a week of first playing the game. He has since reached the last eight in the Open Singles Championship on two occasions—in 1931 and 1932.

Among his achievements in the game is included the unofficial record for the highest premier league rink score in local lawn bowls. In 1932 he skipped a Recreio rink to a 38 to 4 success over R. Lapas's Kowloon Docks' quartette.

Silva was a member of the Colony's Interporter team which visited Shanghai in 1930, and has often played for Kowloon in the annual Aitkenhead Shield match against Hong Kong.

He represented Portugal in every Spey Royal Cup match, and was a member of the team which won the trophy from the Kowloon Docks in 1932.

Silva's record this season in the Senior Division of the League is one of the best. His rink, including J. E. Noronha, C. H. Basto and H. Alves, have only lost one of their seven games to date.

Their single defeat was by a margin of one shot against B. W. Bradbury's Craigengower "A" four on June 9.

History Of Recreio

Silva, as one of the original members of the Club de Recreio team of lawn bowlers, recalls the club's introduction to the game, which occurred but a week before the start of the League in 1927.

After moving to their present premises in King's Park from their old Clubhouse — where the Duro Garage now stands — lawn bowls rink was included in the Club grounds. None of the members, however, had ever played the game before and knew little or nothing of how to roll a wood.

The members were indebted to Messrs. R. Lapas and J. Russell, for their first introduction to the game, and for their painstaking tuition, due to which the members were able to field a team within a week of the commencement of the League.

Win First Match

Victory in their very first game in the League, against the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club, on a strange green, however, imbued the members with an enthusiasm

U.M. OMAR DISPLACED AFTER 5 WEEKS

GUY CLOSE BEHIND SILVA FOR SECOND PLACE

THOMPSON'S RAPID ADVANCE

DEFEATED last Saturday by J. Deakin (K.B.G.C.) by 25 shots to 13, U. M. Omar (C.C.C. "A") lost the leadership of the Senior Division skips record after heading the list for the past five weeks. He has been unplaced by B. W. Bradbury, another Craigengower player.

C. G. Silva (Club de Recreio) retained his second position, though he is closely challenged by L. Guy (K.B.G.C.) who has the same number of victories but is 6 shots behind Silva. U. M. Omar now occupies fourth position.

Recording a win over R. R. Wood (C.S.C.C.) by a margin of 23 shots to 16, A. E. Carey (Police R.C.) retains his leadership among the junior skips.

OBTAINING A COMFORTABLE WIN BY 34 SHOTS TO 9 AGAINST V. N. ATIENZA (C.C.C.), G. E. F. THOMPSON (K.B.G.C.) HAS MADE A REMARKABLE ADVANCE FROM SEVENTH TO SECOND PLACE, DISPLACING A. F. PAUL (H.K.E.R.C.) WHO, DROPPED 13 SHOTS AGAINST K. M. OMAR (I.R.C.).

CRAIGENGOWER "A" ADVANCE

A glance at the score would suggest that the Bowlers Green four (R. Duncan, S. Randle, V. Petherick and W. Macfarlane) were playing below their form, but such was not the case. Their play was well up to the average, but they experienced bad luck.

U. M. Omar received an unexpected setback in his encounter with L. Guy, his skip's average suffering in consequence. He scored only 12 shots against Guy's 25. At no time did the Craigengower skip seem comfortable. He held the lead on one occasion only the first head—after which he seldom reached striking distance of his opponent.

Craigengower had only three players on this rink after the tea interval.

Buchanan was called away urgently on the 13th head, and as he did not return within the 10 minutes allowed under the rules, result is that match.

FRED PERRY RECOVERS WELL AT WIMBLEDON

STERN MATCH WITH MENZEL.

DOROTHY ROUND AND MARY HEELY CLASH

London, To-day.

Brilliant bowling by Fleetwood Smith the left-handed freak bowler, enabled the Australians to record their eighth win on tour when they defeated Somerset by an innings and 77 runs at Taunton yesterday.

Woodfull added 34 runs to his overnight total and Darling 17, and with Barnett adding 51 the tourists totalled 309 against the fast bowling of Wellard.

Faced with the task of scoring 193 to save the innings defeat, Somerset collapsed a second time, Fleetwood Smith securing 6 for 56.

Scores as cabled by Reuter were:—
Somerset: 116 (F. S. Lee 59, not out; W. J. O'Reilly 9 for 39).
116 (Fleetwood Smith 6 for 56).
Australia: 309 W. M. Woodfull 84, L. Darling 79, B. J. Barnett 51, Wellard 6 for 111).

The Australians have won eight of their fifteen matches to date, having lost one and drawn the remaining six.

Hopwood 7 for 13 and 12 For 68.

LANCASHIRE BEAT GLAMORGAN

London, To-day.

Phenomenal bowling by Hopwood, the medium-paced left hander, who took 7 wickets for 13 in the first innings and 6 for 55 in the second innings, gave Lancashire victory over Glamorgan by an innings and 32 runs at Liverpool yesterday.

Dismissed Glamorgan for 62 in the first innings Lancashire amassed a score of 254 for 4, to which total Watson, the opening bat, contributed 108, his fourth century of the season.

Doing little better in the second innings, Glamorgan were dismissed for 160, giving Lancashire a comfortable win.

Glamorgan: 62 (Hopwood 7 for 13). Lancashire: 254 for 4 dec. (Watson 108).

CRAIGENGOWER "B" JUST SUCCEED

he took no further part in the game. A. S. Gomes and H. Beer each bowled three woods from the 14th head and a 25 per cent. deduction was made from the total score on the last 8 heads.

On the remaining green, R. Bassa ended up with an 8 shot victory over W. S. Drake, after leading by 1 shot only on the 19th head. A "6" on the 20th and a single on the last head were responsible for the difference.

Although Bassa scored on 14 of the 21 heads, the majority were singles, no fewer than 10 ends being decided by this small margin.

This win has considerably en-

chanced Craigengower's league prospects, but they still have to visit the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, and there may be a different result to that match.

With his last wood Gill came to rest about four inches in front of the jack. Neither W. Hyde nor Summons altered the lay. When Phillips bowled his last wood he could see just a little of the jack on the back hand.

He drew to it with such accuracy that he cut it across the green to where four of his rings were lying to give Kowloon a lay of 4. Throughout the game Phillips played steady and useful "woods," finishing off the good work of Fincher and Hyde.

CLARK GABLE IS FEATURED IN GRIPPING HOSPITAL DRAMA

SYLVIA SIDNEY AND FREDRIC MARCH AGAIN TOGETHER IN "GOOD DAME."

Barbara Stanwyck In "Ever in My Heart."

SYDNEY KINGSLEY'S play, "Men in White," ran on Broadway with a screen favourite in the leading part—Alexander Kirkland. The magnificent production of the M. G. M. studio gives Clark Gable the best acting chance of his career. As the handsome young Dr. Ferguson, he is all tenderness, charm, strength, and thoroughly convincing. What is more, he gains your sympathy. We find him engrossed to a pretty Society girl (Myrna Loy) who feels that he pays too much attention to his work and too little to her.

The House Surgeon (expertly played by Jean Hersholt) sees a big future for the younger man, and wants him to devote his time to service for others. When Ferguson is snubbed by his fiancee for breaking an engagement, he spends a careless night with a pretty Nurse (Elizabeth Allan). The result of the mismeasure of the doctor and the nurse, furnishes the climax of the play. She has to undergo a serious operation, and under the effects of the ether, babbles enough to explain the cause of it all. The House Surgeon thinking this will provide a lesson to the fiancee, insists that she be present. She faints, is carried out, and the Nurse dies. The end?

The play is harrowingly outspoken, serious, but withal human and honest. The supporting cast is above the ordinary. Besides those already mentioned we have C. Henry Gordon, Otto Kruger, Russell Hopton, Wallace Ford and others. We are given in insight into the daily round of life in a big hospital. I hear that the operation scene does not escape criticism from the medical profession, but whether Gable is right or wrong in his actions does not mean a thing to me. It is just a strong play, and gives this actor a great chance. (Queen's).

"Four Frightened People"

"Four Frightened People" is a gripping tale of four people lost in the Malay jungle (all scenes taken in Honolulu where the principals went on location). Claudette Colbert, the plain unattractive school teacher becomes a lovely woman over whom the two men, Herbert Marshall and William Gargan quarrel. The best acting comes from Mary Roland, and Leo Carrillo. Cecil B. de Mille, the director, has yet to give us—in the talkies—something over which we can rave, but there is quite a lot of fascination in this film, and even if the actors seem a little self-conscious in their tiger skins, they all make the best of the material. The scenery alone is an attraction. Advised. (King's).

"Ever In My Heart"

At last, in "Ever in my Heart," Barbara Stanwyck has a role other than that of a loose woman, and she rises to the occasion in this sentimental story with grace and wistful charm. The theme is the personal martyrdom often suffered by individuals caught up in a war between hitherto friendly nations. "Hugo" (Otto Kruger) a German, meets and marries an American girl (Barbara Stanwyck). He is liked and welcomed by her friends and family, especially delighting them when he becomes an American citizen. Then when the War sets up hatred, intolerance and the hostility of all, he throws up everything to return to his own country to fight. The end is theatrical and tragic, but the super acting saves the situation. Ralph Bellamy is more than likeable as the "other man." The smaller roles are all well portrayed. Laura Hope Crews, Clara Blandick, Frank Albertson, George Cooper and others, with expert direction by Archie Mayo. Don't miss seeing Miss Stanwyck in the best role she has had for months, and Otto Kruger acting in the most subdued manner, proves he is an actor who has migrated from the stage to the screen for "keeps." (Alhambra).

The Way To Love" In "The Way to Love," we have Chevalier revelling in the role of the happy-go-lucky Parisian whose sole ambition is to become a guide. With his best pal, Edward Everett Horton, and the most adorable dog, a Sealyham named "Mutt," we have plenty of humour. Anne Dvorak only has to look pretty and gaze in adoration at Maurice.

Minna Gombell and Arthur Pieron make the most of their opportunities. The story is not strong, but Chevalier, away from Boudoirs and uniforms, acts and sings with a charm that is irresistible. Yes—Mutt, Horton and the Star, guarantee you real enjoyment. Don't miss this, and be sure to take the children. (King's).

"Female"

You may find some of the magnetism and brilliant talent in the Ruth Chatterton we now see in "Female," but personally, since she has been allowed to pick her own stories, she has gone slowly but surely down the ladder of fame. If you relish the idea of seeing the star vamp her husband, Mr. George Brent (since divorced) and some Mr. Brent having little else to do, but appear the strong and silent "He-man," also the fair Ruth drowsing at intervals; and endeavouring to outshine Mae West, then be sure and see the actress who gave us "Madame X," "Anybody's Woman," "Sarah and Son," "Laughing Lady," "To-morrow and To-morrow," "The Doctor's Secret"—and lots more equally successful.

Now you see her in a trifle, some amusing situations with adequate support comprising Lois Wilson, John Mack Brown, Gavin Gordon (Leading man with Garbo in "Romance") and Ferdinand Gottschalk. It has sumptuous settings, lovely gowns, but it must be confessed the material hardly gives the star one really big moment. (Queen's).

"Good Dame"

The marvellous versatility of this man Fredric March. In "Good Dame" you could hardly recognize that sterling player who so skillfully portrayed the double role in "Jekyll and Hyde," "Royal Family," "Merry we go to Hell," "Smilin' Through," "Design for Living" and many more, each one a different characterization.

I am not saying this is a role I would choose for one of my favourite actors—I don't like the common rough cardsharp type, but he plays the "bad man" for all it is worth. Then, too there is that wonderful little actress Sylvia Sydney who can always make you shed a few tears with her wistful appeal. Photography is good and support ditto, including Jack la Rue and Noel Francis. It has lots of laughs, and a full quota of wise-cracks, with a dialogue that does not let up for an instant. Don't miss seeing this popular team. (King's).

"Blood Money"

Every town has its Ball Bond Racket. This sums up in a nutshell the outline of the plot in the strong drama that brings back one of the most popular He-man type of actors the screen has produced—George Bancroft, after an absence of over two years.

"Blood Money" is a thoroughly American picture in characters, plot and treatment. The whole thing revolves round "Bill Bailey" (Bancroft) who provides bait for clients who cannot find it for themselves. He is a powerful man who always justice to suit his own ends. The two leading ladies in this picture do especially good work, and Frances Dee as a young society girl who lives for sensations, will assuredly surprise you.

Judith Anderson as the woman who loves and is faithful in all things, is effective too. Chick Chandler, Blossom Seeley, Kathryn Williams, Sandra Shaw (now Mrs. Gary Cooper), and others, under the direction of Rowland Brown,

Visitors From East to West

When Mae West, screen star, issued her famous "cumpaniment sometime" invitation, she little thought it would be answered by an Eastern potentate. But here is the Sultan of Indore, Sir Ibrahim, third richest man in the world, visiting Mae. He, however, took the precaution of bringing his English-born Sultan with him.

put over a rather complicated story in entertaining manner. Bancroft you will find has not changed at all, and gives his usual robust capable performance. Strong ultra-American drama. (Alhambra).

"One Sunday Afternoon"

"One Sunday Afternoon" is a domestic drama which takes place in a country dentist's office. This simple human story is ingeniously told in flashback form. Gary Cooper is a pleasant surprise. Frances Fuller (a recruit from Broadway) makes the part of the wife so appealing and sweet that one wonders why Gary still loves his first sweetheart, played in true vampish fashion by Fay Wray.

Neil Hamilton is the successful rival who is the main cause of all the trouble. The story has been told before, and is not unlike "Turning back the Clock" so well played by Lee Tracy. I don't say this is an outstanding film, but it is sincere, and Director Stephen Roberts, makes it good entertainment of a popular sort. (King's).

"Good Companions"

One of the best British films we have had the pleasure of seeing was Priestley's "Good Companions." Jessie Matthews, John Gielgud, Edmund Gwenn, Mary Glynn, A. W. Bascombe, Richard Dolman and many more. Strongly advised.

Then comes "Cat and Fiddle" in which Jeanette MacDonald sings divinely and looks lovely. Ramon Novarro acts well. Frank Morgan, Charles Butterworth and Vivien Segal are all good, and the music alone is worth going to hear twice. Then we have Emil Jannings in "Merry Monarch," a part that is hardly worthy of this great German actor. The American girl Sidney Fox is the leading lady. One recommendation however, is the beautiful scenery. Then—comes the really outstanding film from the Metro Studio for 1934—(so far). Max Baer in "The Prizefighter and the Lady." What a picture what a man—Baer.

Myrna Loy, Walter Huston and Otto Kruger the principals who help to make this a film I will not forget. It will be more than interesting to see now, as, since this was filmed, Baer has really become Champion of the Boxing World, beating Primo Carnera, whom he meets in the course of the story. Jack Dempsey is seen as the referee. Not only for fight-fans but lovers of good acting, and if you want to see the outstanding male find of 1934, then don't miss Max Baer (Star).

"I'm Telling You"

The Women's Clubs in the United States have started a national campaign against the production of "Salacious" pictures. They consider them a grave menace to youth, home-life and Religion. They are most strongly against the deploitation of gangsters, and other criminals—both men and women—as heroes and heroines. Millions of filmgoers will pledge themselves to stay away from films that are blacklisted by this so-called "Legion of Decency."

Short Shots

Three weeks after announcing that their engagement had been broken off, Basil Dean and Victoria Hopper were married quietly in Essex.

Two of Sinclair Lewis' best novels, "Main Street" and "Babbitt" will be filmed by Warner.

M.G.M. DIRECTOR IN H.K.

MAKING "SHOTS" IN COLONY FOR "CHINA SEAS"

Mr. James McKay Brings Complete Staff.

CLARK GABLE'S NEW FILM

James McKay, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's motion picture director and producer of "Tarzan, the Ape Man" one of the most popular 1933 films, and who has just completed its sequel, "Tarzan and His Mate" arrived in Hong Kong yesterday from Hollywood on the Asama Maru, accompanied by Mrs. McKay.

Mr. McKay, also denied any connection with the filming of "Good Earth" and the much-talked-of "The Painted Veil."

Johnny Weissmuller Again. Johnny Weissmuller, the world champion swimmer, is again cast as Tarzan in the new release "Tarzan and His Mate," which is now taking America by storm. Maureen O'Sullivan, who also played in "Tarzan," is again the leading lady.

Mr. McKay said that the release of "China Seas" would probably be made in late September. As was the general rule with a film story, the actual plot was written towards the end or at the very last moment. Location shots for nearly every scene were prepared in advance and the story altered and cut to suit. It was seldom that the original story, unless a "best seller," was adhered to in its picture form.

Clark Gable and Joan Crawford, said Mrs. McKay, are extremely popular in America, and a recent release of Joan, Crawford's, "Goddess McGee," is considered to be one of her best pictures to date. The staff accompanying Mr. McKay are, Mr. Harry Perkins, Assistant Cameraman, Mr. Clyde de Vinna cinematographer, Mr. H. D. Watson and Mr. Alfred Inman, sound engineers.

Shots Of Hong Kong. Mr. McKay and his party will remain in Hong Kong for four days during which time "shots" of the harbour and island will be taken for yet another picture to be known as "China Seas." Clark Gable will also star in this picture, and Jean Harlow is mentioned as his leading lady.

Best Out East.

In spite of the bad weather, which greeted Mr. and Mrs. McKay on their first visit to the Colony, both were unanimous in their opinion of Hong Kong's beauty as a scenic spot and considered that it was the "finest spot out East."

In an interview with a "China Mail" representative yesterday, Mr. McKay said that a full equipment

CHEERFUL WALL STREET SENTIMENT

"Wheat: The absorbing of hedging sales and of local offerings and the large movement of the crop in the South-West have increased the strength of Corn. The fear that heat will cause damage in parts of the American North-West had some effect on the market. Wednesday's sales: 29,439,000 bushels.

"Cotton: Prices closed at around the day's best levels. Buying was more general. The supply of contracts was quiet and limited. Sentiment was aided by the improvement in grains. Weather conditions are clear.

"Silver: Futures were sharply higher on speculative buying of distant months and the market continued to absorb July offerings, which were credited to Government account. March option was sold at 48.64, within a fraction of fifty cents, the basis on which the Government is expected to value silver. It was the opinion of the market that this was the present objective of bull operators. Total sales: 234 contracts.

"Rubber: Market featureless. Total sales: 489 contracts.

Education In The Machine Age.

A phrase from the Presidential address to the Conference of Head Teachers recently held in London curiously illustrates the gap in thought which separates us from the nineteenth century. Education was praised by the President as "the only antidote to the machine age." Our fathers did not consider that education needed justification; it was a self-evident good tied up with enlightenment, democracy and progress in the triumphal procession of humanity. Nor on the whole had they qualms about living in a mechanical era; the complacent Samuel Smiles was the biographer of the great engineers who formed, as it were, the apostles of a mechanical revelation.

No one can claim that our social life is adjusted yet either to the plenty or to the leisure that the machines can bestow. It seems a tenable belief that our adjustment depends as much on the type of mind produced in the individual citizen as on his political or economic status. The great mass of our citizens depend upon machines for their livelihood, and as "machine-minders" have less physical toil and shorter hours than the toiling masses of Victorian England. Not every mechanist finds his task monotonous or tedious; that is a belief popularised mainly by academic persons oblivious of the interest which the modern small boy takes in miniature railways, or his father in full-size motorcycles and cars. Many tasks in the machine age are, none the less, repetitive—negative and passive, too, rather than active and creative. If all leisure (and not merely a part of it) is spent with a comparable monotony and passivity, the next generation will be the bored children of dull parents. It is against this threat that education should be arming its forces.

Fewer People.

The population of Britain increased so continuously and with such rapidity during the years of the great industrial expansion that the idea of its ceasing to grow at all is still a little startling. Yet the vital statistics for the last quarter of 1933, show that the population today is almost stationary.

Soon even the present slight increase will have ceased. Our birth rate has reached a new low record, and our death rate is no longer declining. This tendency is common to nearly every industrial nation. It has been calculated by experts that the French population will begin to decline dock.

in 1937, the British in 1942, the German in 1946, and the United States in 1960.

There are signs that even the Chinese are approaching stagnancy, and that the present large increase in the Japanese population cannot be long continued. Obviously the check to population will affect many world conditions and create new problems. As the average age increases, populations will become older, and therefore less adventurous. Competition may become less fierce when there are fewer mouths to feed.

But the most serious result of the new condition will be the lessened demand for commodities. Present production is planned to supply a continually expanding demand. There are already indications that the demand is beginning to fall off, a process which will be accelerated in the future. There is plainly a period of drastic readjustment in front of the world.

Hendon Pageant.

The Royal Air Force pageant at Hendon to-morrow will show that with a little more encouragement from official quarters Britain would be the most air-minded nation in the world. Since it was started fifteen years ago, the pageant of the skies has been among the most popular of annual events. This year it will be more majestic, more thrilling, and it is hoped, more largely attended than ever before.

The pageant should hold two lessons for the public. First it will demonstrate anew the unmatched efficiency of the Royal Air Force. Secondly, it will reveal the deficiency in numerical strength compared with the air forces of other nations. The machines for the display will comprise half the total force available for home defence. The resulting comparison with foreign air strength may be odious, but it will be obvious.

COL DE LANA ARRIVES.

To Go Into Dry Dock At Kowloon To-day.

Refloated after being aground on Pratas Island, the Italian motor vessel Col de Lana arrived here on Wednesday and berthed at the Kowloon wharf, where a cargo of over 3,000 tons of soybeans and ground nuts were discharged.

It is understood that she will go into dry dock at the Kowloon Dock to-day. After being refloated, it was found that the ship was taking water in her No. 2 hold and pumps have been maintained since to keep the water down. The full extent of her damages will not be known until after the vessel goes into dry dock.

HERE, THERE and EVERWHERE

At Home To The Air Force

The officers and men of the 203rd Flying Boat Squadron, stationed at Basrah, have accepted an invitation of the Australian Government to attend the Melbourne centenary celebrations next October.

This squadron, which has done magnificent work in the Persian Gulf, will make the journey of roughly 24,000 miles in September.

Its personnel are looking forward keenly to the trip. They would look forward still more keenly if the celebrations fell in mid-summer, when the Gulf climate is purgatorial.

The White Flag

The Leticia dispute between Colombia and Peru—one of the few disputes of recent years which seems to have been happily settled—was the first and, the only occasion for which the League of Nations produced a flag of its own.

It was a white rectangle inscribed in dark blue "League of Nations Commission, Leticia."

It was flown alongside the Colombian flag while the commission was in Leticia.

Leticia was one of the League's most outstanding fiascos. It is, of course, extremely remote, but at one time the war threatened to embroil all the northern republics of South America.

It was named by its founder after his lady-love, the daughter of a consul in Chile.

On his return to civilisation he found that the girl had married someone else.

Nature's Revenge

The war which the New Zealand Government have had to declare on red deer throws a sidelight on man's interference with nature.

In their original state, both the North Island and the South Island had no land mammals. The only fish which swam in their rivers were eels.

With the arrival of the British colonist acclimatisation of deer, pheasants, rainbow and brown trout, and, finally, salmon has been carried out with amazing success.

Nearly all these animals and fish now multiply more quickly and grow to greater size in the equable climate of New Zealand than they do in their countries of origin.

Lord Dalhousie, who introduced the red deer, seems likely to share the fate of Mr. Thatcher, who introduced the first rabbit into Australia.

Mr. Thatcher was given a special medal as a benefactor. To-day no words are hard enough for him.

Your Daily Smile!

Sandy was learning to play the bagpipes. One night, while he was strutting about the room, skirling for all he was worth, his wife attempted a mild protest.

"That's an awful noise ye're making," she said.

Sandy sat down and took off his boots; then got up and resumed his piping in his stocking feet.

CROESUS AND CO.

A motor-car manufacturer says the £200-a-year man can run a car nowadays. That is, of course, unless he prefers flying, hunting, or yachting.

ASKING FOR IT

A man dislocated his neck while travelling in a tram car. That will teach him to buy his own newspaper in future.

Both In The Same Boat

"Some people still try to make out that the Disarmament Conference isn't dead. Well, as I was saying to Queen Anne only last night..."

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Man is said to be the only animal that laughs. He is also the only animal whose boss tells him jokes.

IS NOT IT?

"Sport is a great leveller," remarks a writer. This is particularly true of boxing.

Shattered Romance

If I knew where she lived I could write to that girl I met on the beach on Sunday—if I only knew her name.

ANGLO-FRENCH TRADE AGREEMENT

REVISED CUSTOMS AND EXCISE DUTIES

London, To-day.

In connection with the Anglo-French trade agreement, the Treasury has issued an order bringing into operation, as from July 2 revised Customs and excise duties on silk, artificial silk, and articles made wholly or partly thereof, including Customs duties on Eastern tissues of varieties known as Shantung, Ninghai, Nanshan, Honan Antung and Habutai of three shillings, and sixpence per lb. where dyed or printed and two shillings, and ninepence per lb. where undyed or unprinted.

In the case of made-up articles consisting wholly or partly of silk or artificial silk, the rates of duty are unchanged, except where the value of the silk or artificial silk component exceeds 5 per cent., but does not exceed 20 per cent. of the aggregate values of all the components of the article. The rate of duty in the latter case is increased from 20 to 25 per cent.

In addition to the duty per lb. on Eastern tissues, the tissues already specified are subject to a duty of 25 per cent. of the full value of the article or, in the case of dyed or printed tissues, 7½d. per square yard, whichever is the greater.—Reuters.

TEXT OF AGREEMENT

London, To-day. The new Anglo-French trade agreement, which was signed on Wednesday, will come into operation on July 1, and is to remain in force until April 1. It will thereafter be continued, subject to the right of either Government to terminate it at any time, so as to terminate in three months from the end of the quarter in which notice is given.

Under the agreement of the text, which was issued last night, each country undertakes that the other shall be the most favoured nation for treatment in matters of customs duties on goods which are produced or, and consigned from, others apart from certain exceptions.

All quotas in respect of United Kingdom goods are to be restored to 100 per cent. The United Kingdom is to have a proportionate share in each trade concerned, as calculated upon the figures of such trade in the base period. The surtax of

DANGEROUS DRIVING BY MR. GREYER PROVED*$50 FINE AND STERN WARNING.

With a stern warning, Mr. E. W. Hamilton imposed a fine of $50 on Mr. E. Greyer, of Messrs. Sander, Wieler and Company, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when the latter appeared on two summonses, of driving his private car No. T267 in a dangerous manner in Repulse Bay Road, on June 9, at 6.50 p.m., and for driving without due care and caution in Shek O Road, on June 17, at 3.40 p.m.

At the last hearing, Mr. Greyer pleaded not guilty to the summonses, and was adjourned until yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Hamilton remarked that he would like to visit the places where the offences were alleged to have occurred.

Mr. L. H. V. Booth, Assistant Director of Criminal Intelligence, said at the last hearing, that on the afternoon of June 9, defendant overtook his car and another car on Repulse Bay Road, on a blind bend, and cut in a stream of five or six cars.

Traffic-Sergeant Brown, who prosecuted on the second summons, said that defendant drove along Shek O Road at a speed of 35 miles an hour near a car park, when a car was coming out. There was nearly a collision, he said.

DANGER PROVED.

Mr. Hamilton, in finding the accused this morning on the summons for dangerous driving at Repulse Bay Road, said that he visited the scene yesterday. There was another car ahead of his, and that, although he was in a powerful car, there was absolutely no chance of passing the car in front without danger.

Mr. Hamilton remarked that Mr. Greyer had told him that he had been driving for the last 35 years without an accident, and added that Mr. Greyer must have been driving with better skill, accompanied by luck, and have been driving on better roads than the ones in Hong Kong.

In view of Mr. Greyer's previous record, a fine of $50 was imposed, while on the second summons Mr. Hamilton said that the state of affairs was somewhat different and he quite accepted the Police version of the case and cautioned Mr. Greyer.

A stern warning was given to the driver by Mr. Hamilton, who said that drastic treatment would be meted out the next time he was charged with a traffic offence.

EUROPEAN CAUTIONED

Mrs. Griffin, of the Coomopolitan Docks, was cautioned by Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for parking her car, No. 569, near a bus stop, outside the Valetta Laundry, Nathan Road, near Hankow Road, at 12.25 p.m. on June 13.

Sub-Inspector S. C. Saunders prosecuted.

Serious Accident Due To Deficient Brakes.

Summoned before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy this morning, for driving his car while the brake was not in sufficient order, and for allowing his car to be driven when the brake was not in good order, Lam Yu-ping, driver of private car No. 108, was not asked to plead.

Traffic Inspector Nicol said that accused hit a man in Queen's Road, Central, with his car. The man is now in hospital, suffering from a broken spine, in a serious condition and that it is feared that he may die.

The case was adjourned for seven days.

Dangerous Driver Fails To Stop.

Fines totalling $30, in default one month's imprisonment, was imposed on Sung Koon-fook, driver of public car No. 428, by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy this morning, for dangerous driving and for failing to stop. He was cautioned on the summons for soliciting for passengers in front of the Taiping Theatre.

Kong Ying, driver of public car No. 177, was also fined $20, in default three weeks' imprisonment, for soliciting for passengers and for failing to stop, in front of the Taiping Theatre.

Canton-Kowloon Railway Director Faces Bitter Criticism

The Provincial Department of Reconstruction, which appointed Hu to the post, is investigating the charges brought against the railway director. Should the charges be confirmed, Mr. Hu Tung-chao will probably still hold his post until negotiations with the Kowloon section for a revision of the agreement are completed.

As the dissatisfied workers have also sent an appeal to the Ministry of Railways, in Nanking, setting forth their complaint against Mr. Hu Tung-chao, the Ministry desires to appoint Mr. Liu Cheng-shang, former traffic manager of the C.K.R., as the managing director. The Ministry desires to regain control of this line, instead of allowing it to be placed under the control of the Kwangtung authorities.

He always stopped for a moment near the door, and looked the scene over; he would look at the model, and generally he would have some fault to find with the pose. "Can't you get her into a more interesting pose?" he used to ask the room in general. "I don't blame you if you don't get anything good out of that; there isn't any action in it."

Today's Short Story.

FOR ART'S SAKE

By Nancy Hale.

ART life class at Art School used to begin at nine and go on working till one, with five-minute rests for the model every half-hour, and a long rest at eleven o'clock, when the girls would go down to the lunch-room on the ground floor and eat the pimento-cheese sandwiches they brought with them from home, or else buy Hershey bars at the little art store in the front hall of the school, and eat them.

The men used to go out on the sidewalk outside the school and smoke, or throw a baseball around. When it got too cold for that, they got together in groups in the hellways and talked in low voices about Mr. Merritt, the life class instructor, whom nobody liked. The men never mixed with the girls in the long rest, and neither the men nor the girls ever stayed in the life studio for that half-hour. If anyone did go back for a minute to get something, the model was always huddled in the corner by the radiator, like a sick dog.

It was queer to see how in Art School, as in any other school, the class split itself quickly into those old divisions, the leaders with a lot of personality, the bright ones who worked hard and didn't sing or talk while the model was posing, and the queer ones.

The queerest one was called Gladys Crane. She had been drawing in that life class for four years, while she went right on putting huge, grotesque heads on top of little bodies, and making the hands and the ears the same size, and he must have known that there was no use in telling her anything at all, any more.

The ones with personality, the leaders, weren't ever the good students, and the more Mr. Merritt worked over them, the more they hated him. He would come in to begin criticism at half-past nine on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, looking very small and unpressed and tired. The room where the class worked was a big, high loft, with a north light, and a skylight that was kept covered by a shade; the easels were set around in a wide, crowded semicircle.

All the men wore blue cotton smocks over their vests and trousers, and the girls wore blue or yellow or pink or orange cotton smocks; the men always worked standing up, but some of the girls used stools to sit on. The model sat or stood on a stand in the middle of the semi-circle, nude and a little blue, keeping still as a rock, as those professional models did.

When the half-hour was over, the model, usually an ugly baggy woman, or a big Italian with hair growing down his chest and stomach, or one of the old men whose muscles were practically obscured by flabby flesh, would instantly grab up a wrapper and go and sit in the corner by the radiator, all huddled up.

They always kept their own time, with a watch lying on the floor of the model stand; most of the students were very ardent workers and didn't believe in giving the models so many rests, and once when there was a thin French girl for a model, who had no watch, and Gilbert Fisher kept time instead, they kept her standing for an hour and five minutes, and then she fainted. So the models kept their own time.

So the models kept their own time.

On Tuesday and Thursday mornings, when Mr. Merritt came in, it was always very quiet. All you could hear was the squeaky sawing of sharpened charcoal against paper. The door behind the screen that kept the draught from the model would open, and close; then Mr. Merritt would move around the screen, and say "Good morning" in a low voice.

The convention was that nobody ever said "Good morning" back, but a few of the girls, who had talent and got along with Mr. Merritt, would look up and smile.

He always stopped for a moment near the door, and looked the scene over; he would look at the model, and generally he would have some fault to find with the pose. "Can't you get her into a more interesting pose?" he used to ask the room in general. "I don't blame you if you don't get anything good out of that; there isn't any action in it."

RHODES FILM TO BE MADE*South Africa Chosen As Location.*A HITCH IN CASTING

Johannesburg.

There has been a great deal of uncertainty as to whether the Rhodes film will be made by Gaumont British Picture Corporation in South Africa, in America, or not at all.

Mrs. Sarah Gertrude Millin, who wrote the scenario for the film, in the course of an interview said: "My information is that the film will be made and in this country." "I have had a letter," continued Mrs. Millin, "from Mr. Geoffrey Barkas, the Corporation's representative in South Africa, to the effect that he is going ahead with the film. An immediate start will not be made as there is a slight hitch in connection with obtaining an actor to play the part of Rhodes. The Corporation has in mind a certain actor who is not available just yet. He will not be free until the English Autumn when, as far as I know, a start will be made with the film. I know who the actor is, but I do not think I ought to disclose his name."

It was stated from overseas recently that it was not certain that the film would be made at all, and that the matter depended upon the report of Mr. Barkas. From the letter which Mrs. Millin has received from Mr. Barkas, however, these seems to be little doubt that the film will be made, and not in America, but in this country.—Reuter.

NEW SEA VENTURE PLANNED.*Slovakian To Paddle To Palestine.

Prague. Josef Toth, a carpenter of Šala, Slovakia, is planning to journey from Czechoslovakia to Palestine in a home-made paddle-boat. His course will include two rivers and four seas.

He will not do this for a bet, or to set up a freak record, but simply because it is the cheapest way of taking his wife, daughter and household goods to Palestine, where he has been offered a permanent job.

Toth made his craft by fastening two small boats side by side and by building a little house over them. It is propelled by paddle wheels turned by a special hand-worked apparatus invented by himself.—Reuter.

THREW SAND IN THE SALAD.*Man's Act Causes Grave Disorder.

Madrid. Because a man threw sand in the salad while a party was picnicking on the outskirts of Madrid, such a violent fight occurred that a strong force of shock police had to be called to restore order.

Five men, suffering from severe facial injuries, were taken to hospital.

The sand-thrower escaped.—Reuter.

CENTENARY AIR RACE PLANS

Woman To Accompany
D. T. Saville.

IN ALL-AUSTRALIAN PLANE

Sydney, N.S.W.
Mr. D. T. Saville, who is to pilot the all-Australian aeroplane in the Melbourne Centenary Air Race, will have as co-pilots Mr. L. J. R. Jones, who is part designer of the plane and lecturer in aircraft construction at the Sydney University, and Miss May Bradford.

Miss Bradford has been employed as a mechanic since December at the workshop at Ryde, where the aeroplane is being assembled. Recently, when the aeroplane was inspected by prominent citizens, Miss Bradford, dressed in overalls, was busily engaged on the construction of the machine.

Mr. Jones said he estimated that the plane would have a maximum speed of 240 to 250 miles an hour. Thus a pilot could breakfast in Sydney, lunch in Auckland, dine at Melbourne, and return to Sydney in time to go to bed early.

Mr. Jones added that those behind the venture were not seeking any financial gain. All money subscribed in excess of the cost of the machine and any prize money would be handled by the committee for the benefit of returned soldiers' organisations and aeronautical research. The designers had contributed in cash and labour about $4,000, and £2,000 was needed to complete the machine.—Reuter.

"AFRICA SPEAKS" TOO LOUD.

Induces Schoolboys To Stow Away.

Belgrade. Six little schoolboys of Shibe-nik went to see the film "Africa Speaks."

They sat entranced while it was shown, and came to the conclusion that Africa must be a very wonderful place.

The crew of a steamer about to leave Shibe-nik for Africa heard strange noises in one of the coal bunkers.

They searched the bunker, and found the six little boys—very grimy—hidden among the coal.

The boys had revolvers, food and money. One boy had taken £40 from his father's shop.—Reuter.

LAUNDRY SENT BY AIR LINE.

Expensive Habit Of Dutch Woman.

Amsterdam. A Dutch woman who lives in France still has her weekly washing done by a laundry in Holland.

She has her soiled linen packed inside a Dutch air liner at Le Bourget aerodrome near Paris. Thence it is flown to Rotterdam, where a car takes it to a laundry at Gouda.

Two days later the car returns to the Rotterdam aerodrome, with the clean linen. Then it is sent back to Paris by air.—Reuter.

FOR ART'S SAKE

The things they used to say were that he was stupid and academic, and was trying to cramp their originality and make them all draw his way; but he himself hadn't sold a picture for five years, a fact they had found out and plugged for all it was worth; that he was an old, played-out, dated artist anyway, and not fit to teach drawing to young people. Gilbert Fisher, who was one of the leaders, and was very good-looking and made a point of being gallant to women, used to say:

"You know, that man has a wife and three children all dependent on him for a living, and yet he goes right on painting his old-hat pictures and not selling any of them. You know that isn't fair to a man's wife."

After a while, the feeling of resentment would subside, and one or two of the students would begin to sing, and then a few more and then everything was gay and friendly again, with people borrowing each other's knives or art gum, and talking among themselves about going to Paris to study, or the painters whose work they admired. With Mr. Merritt gone, they could feel confident again, and inspired, and sure of their own talent.

On one of his Tuesdays, Mr. Merritt did not come in at half-past nine, and at ten they sent up to say that Mr. Merritt's little girl had pneumonia, and that he would not be in to give criticism that day. On Thursday, however, turned up on time, looking very tired, and started in on the rounds as usual. When he got to Anne Grant, she asked him how his child was, and the rest of the class heard what he said. "Well, I suppose she'll come around now. But it makes me sort of sick to see my little girl feeling that way." Then he went on drawing, delicately and precisely, on the side of Anne's paper.

This was one of the weeks when Anne had tried to help Gladys with her drawing. She had drawn a body which was about three-quarters of the whole length of the figure, and dreadful little short legs underneath. But she hadn't been able to see that it was wrong. She only shook her head at Anne, and Anne showed her that the measurements were off.

When Mr. Merritt got around to Gladys he stood and looked at this drawing with that expression of real pain, with the corners of his mouth drawn back and in. He lifted his arm once or twice, as if to indicate how the thing should be done, but his arm fell back to his side. "You know, Miss Grant," he said, "there's nothing I can say about your drawing. It can't be criticised, because everything is wrong. There are some people who can never be artists, and I'm afraid, Miss Grant, you're one of them." He said this in a very gentle, low voice, so low that Anne Grant said afterward it was really a miracle of understatement and sympathy.

But Gladys looked at him with her mouth open, smiling dreamily, the way the Japanese smile when they are most agonized. A few moments later, when Mr. Merritt had gone on and was confined to her "sick room"—

As she got older, Winnie lost her teeth one by one, and became liable to influenza in winter. She refused to take any medicine, but used to wrap her feet up in a blanket herself. During the last two years of her life she had been partially paralysed and confined to her "sick room"—

Limited Subsidies For

London, To-day. While the main feature of the Government scheme to help British shipping is the granting of financial guarantees for the construction of new merchant ships on the condition that three old vessels are scrapped for every new one, it is learned that there are also proposals for limited subsidising of merchant ships which are competing against specially heavy foreign subsidies.—Reuter.
